DEJA-VU PHOTO January 7, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

If this photo looks familiar, it is, although you will notice there now is a second flower that has appeared. This tells you that little is happening here and how slim the pickings are just now for photo targets. Yes, I could go outside, but it has been snowing everyday lately and very cold at that. I have not been outside much.

But I wish you well and hope your winter is as warm and comfortable as my own. Of course, those of you who live in warm climates I don't want to hear about. Just be happy you can be outside.

For those interested, my latest e-book:

"Training the Mind: A Brief Guide to Dharma Practice"

is available free here :

http://astrologysoftware.com/books/index.asp?orig

And here:

http://macrostop.com/

